Anita Rancatti

Over the past 20 years Anita has focused on watercolor and has studied with a variety of masters. Anita likes to travel and use her experiences and photographic images of these places to develop visual memories via watercolor. She enjoys letting the paint go where it want to go and at other times trying to control it. She is always surprised when the final result is a wonderful painting.

Carol Meckling

Developing skill as an artist for Carol has meant slowing down, training my eye to see, developing concentration and lots of patience. There also has to be a willingness as well, a strong desire to create. Art, meditation, being in the natural world...they all are about the process, engaging fully in the present and staying there as best you can. Her current studio is in Bayfield, studio visits available by contacting her.
